Let us review the main features of a computer. Its main features are: a Processor (may be with serial or parallel architecture) with inherent processing power, a Controller, a Database (memory bank) and user interfaces with. Serial/parallel ports. These features provide multitasking as well as multiprogramming functions, depending upon the computer architecture and processor power and the associated operating speed. But, any conceivable super computer of today or future cannot provide unlimited features (not infinite by any notion) and hence the functions are limited.

I will try to describe here an extra-super computer which existed, is existing and will exist all the time even in future. It has infinite features such as a processor (of course with parallel architecture) with infinite power, extraordinary supreme controller, an infinitely super-mega Database and infinite user interfaces with infinite multitasking as well as multiprogramming functions. Such a unique extra-super computer is no other than the God, the supreme. The infinite features of such a unique extra-super computer are not conceivable even by anybody. However, in the modern world, four main features are often mentioned for understanding purpose of the Lord by any lay man. They are brahma, viShNu, mahESvara, and Sakti forms of one and only one supreme Lord.

Let us understand these four main features and the associated roles in this computer age in terms of human species. After the birth of a human, the day to day protection, prosperity and the welfare are needed for an individual are constantly provided by the viShNu form of the Supreme Lord. He is resident in the individual providing guidance all the time as long as the human is alive. Every time one thinks and tries to execute the job, the Lord prompts an individual what is right and wrong. If the individual does the right thing, that event is registered by the Lord in the Database of the Supreme. On the other hand, if the individual takes the wrong decision and executes it (influenced by the emotions, living environment and the day to day relationships with the associated society, family, etc.), that event is also registered in the database by the same Supreme Lord. The Lord maintains such a real time entries with concurrent- session-oriented Database for all the creatures including the humans of the world till the life exists in the living beings. Thus, the viShNu form of the Supreme Lord prevails.

One may ask what is the use of maintaining such Database with all good and bad remarks of individuals as Database entries in real time. Here comes the role of the mahESvara form of the Supreme Lord. The Siva form acts as the Database Manager, at the time of death (i.e., when life ceases to exist in an individual). Several individuals in the world die at any instant depending on the life time destined by the Supreme Lord. So Siva, the Database Manager analyzes the Database entries of all the individuals died at any instant in concurrent sessions and develops a product specifications as per an individual's Database entries. Thus, the unique Database Manager, none other than the Siva form of the Supreme Lord, concurrently designs a product portfolio of features and specifications case by case for all the individuals who died at any instant. Each portfolio is different from other specifically designed for each individual at the time of death. The portfolio of specifications covers features and functions depending on the Database entries (a record of life time history of bad deeds and good deeds) such as:

what type of product (i.e., a human or an animal or a bird ,etc.);if human, what color: creed, race, nationality, religion, etc.; who the parents are; of what manners: good or bad; rich or poor, disabled, etc.

Thus, the Supreme Lord in the form of Siva makes sure an individual is accountable for the good deeds and bad deeds done during the life time. The Lord bestows due credit for good deeds and makes the individual pay due penalty for the bad deeds by developing a product specification portfolio at the time of death.

One may ask how the product portfolio developed at the time of the death of an individual is used. Here comes the role of brahma form of the Supreme Lord. The product portfolio of the individual is utilized by the brahma in developing an exact product as per the portfolio in the form of a birth. The final product may be a human or an animal or a creature, etc. At any instance, a multitude of births occur as per the designated product portfolio per case basis. Such multitasking, multiprogramming capabilities are inherently self-contained and exhibited by the Lord acting as the Supreme coordinator, the extraordinary supreme Controller, the omnipotent, the omnipresent and all pervading Supreme processing power is nothing but the Sakti form of the Supreme Lord. Thus exists for ever the extra-super computer the Lord.

Such a super-computer does not require drivers, software Programs and Programmers to interact concurrently with infinite entities (per item basis), of the world. If one goes to the market to buy a computer, the price of it varies as per the functions and features, one aspires to have. The price of the product varies as per the vendors mark-up price.

In the case of a the Super Computer, as mentioned earlier, the only price one has to pay is the intense devotion. If one worships any one of the attributes (i.e., the form - vishNu, Siva, etc.) with intense devotion, one can get access to the all attributes of the Lord. One should be so obsessed with the chosen attribute/form for devotion that the same form/attribute should be seen everywhere and in every thing. But at the same time one should not discriminate from one attribute/from the other as The Lord is in every form and in everything everywhere. Nothing is different from the Lord. Great devotees like Sri tyAgarAja sang in praise of every attribute/form even though his chosen attribute/form is rAma the embodiment of supreme beauty and righteous behavior. Sri tyAgarAja visualized rAma in all the forms everywhere and in everything.

Here, I tried to explain Computer-Age-God for computer buffs.
